

Caso di Holloway

Did you folks check the landfill?

To Jossy Mansur, Editor-in-Chief. I would imagine that an enormous amount of trash is collected daily from the business establishments of Aruba. If so, is this trash taken to a landfill or is it shipped out of the country to another location for disposal?

One would hate to think that this girl was disposed of in a trash dumpster but it happened here in the States. A man wrapped his wife in plastic, disposed of her in a local trash dumpster where it was picked up and dumped at the landfill.

Even after a confession, it took a very long time to locate her body (which of course was in very bad shape when found).

I haven't heard anything on the news to suggest that trash was investigated. I know they are concentrating on the waters but all avenues need to be checked out.

I don't know how much time elapsed before they actually started the search, but if trash is shipped out, it could have been gone before the search started. Sorry to bother you with this but it has weighed heavily on my mind.

Mrs. Sue.

Caso di Holloway

Many Americans are embarrassed by the way that some are behaving

To The Citizens of Aruba. We want you to know that there are many Americans who are embarrassed by the way the U.S. Press and the Natalie Holloway family are behaving on your island.

We feel very badly that an American teen-ager has gone missing, but we have full confidence that your law enforcement, your common court of Justice of Aruba and the Netherlands Antilles, and a Supreme Court of Justice in the Netherlands will do everything possible to solve this case ... WITHOUT the inappropriate and outspoken "help" of the American press and the Holloway extended family.

We support the Aruban government should it decide to expel the most outspoken US "news hounds": FOX News' Greta Van Susteren and Geraldo Rivera for their unrelenting, unprofessional, and intrusive meddling in the procedures of a sovereign nation.

No American citizen should be telling the Aruban government or law enforcement how to investigate and solve the Holloway case. They are an embarrassment to many of us in America.

We hope you believe that the majority of Americans are not like those representing our country in the Natalie Holloway case.

Sincerely,
A Large Group of Embarrassed Americans.